Asangwa maintains a broad bilingual litigation practice in a variety of areas including but not limited to labour and employment law, commercial law, and insurance law. His time spent in the field of immigration law as well as his pre-law business experience in the areas of insurance and pension benefits have strengthened his ability to work with diverse clients and explain complex matters in simple terms. Asangwa's courtroom experience working with judges at the Court of Appeal of New Brunswick gives him intimate and sound knowledge of the workings of the court system, as well as sharp advocacy skills.
